State Library Bulletin

Additions No. 3 December 1894

EXPLANATION

To enable readers in all parts of the state to know what books have been added to the library, classified and indexed bulletins will be occasionally printed. This bulletin contains the additions from October 1, 1890 to April 1, 1894. It includes the medical library received from the Albany medical college and the library collected by the Board of women managers of New York for the World's Columbian exposition of 1893 and afterwards given to the State library. The latter collection is marked by W preceding the class number. These books are not allowed to be lent, but may be freely consulted in the library. They are preserved as a permanent memorial of the literary work of New York women and contributions are asked from all authors and others interested to make the collection as complete as possible.

The question "What has the library added on a given subject?" is promptly answered by the class list, which is closely grouped by subjects and supplemented by a full alphabetic subject index. This list gives authors' surname and initials, full title, number of volumes or pages, size (designated by size letters), place and date of publication, and, in the left margin, the numbers to be used in calling for the book. The first line of the call number is the number referred to by the subject index and indicates the subject of the book. All figures after the first three are treated as decimals.

The other question "What has the library added by a given author?" is answered by the author list arranged alphabetically by authors' surnames, and giving brief titles and call numbers. The periodicals, annual reports and other serials currently received at the library are not included in this bulletin but will be published in a separate list.

HOW TO FIND BOOKS IN THIS BULLETIN

The bulletin is divided into three parts in this order: 1, class list; 2, author list; 3, subject index.

For a specific subject look in the subject index. This is not a general index to the system of classification but only to such subjects as are included in this number of the bulletin. The number following each topic refers not to the page, but to the subject number in the left margin of the class list, which is arranged in simple numerical order. Under each subject number in the class list are all books on that subject added during the year. Only the upper line is the subject number. The letters and figures on the second line are the book number distinguishing that book from others on the same subject. Both lines must be copied in calling for the book.

For a specific book look in the alphabetic author list in the middle of the bulletin for the authors' surname, or, if the book is anonymous, for the first word of the title, disregarding initial articles.

Plan of classification

The field of knowledge is divided into nine main classes, and these are numbered by the digits, 1 to 9. Cyclopedias, periodicals, etc., so general in character as to belong to no one of these classes, are marked naught, and form a tenth class. Each class is similarly separated into nine divisions, general works belonging to no division having naught in place of the division number. Divisions are similarly divided into nine sections, and the process is repeated as often as necessary. Thus 512 means Class 5 (Natural Science), Division 1 (Mathematics), Section 2 (Algebra), and every Algebra is numbered 512.

Since each subject has a definite number it follows that all books on any subject must stand together. The titles of books in this bulletin, as well as the books on the library shelves, are arranged in the simple numerical order of their class numbers which are all decimals. The summary of the 100 divisions printed on the next page shows the general arrangement of the subjects. For the number of any special subject look in the subject index at the end of the bulletin. This contains the names of all topics included in this bulletin with their proper class numbers.
